Freeway sound wall going up

■ Federal government is picking up most of the tab for a sound barrier to protect residents from freeway noise and danger

By Steve Marschke

The several hundred residents of Valhalla Mobile Home Park are finally getting their wish: a sound wall to deaden noise from nearby U.S. 50.

The trailer park is located along the southern side of the freeway, east of Enterprise Blvd. in West Sacramento. It boasts a couple of hundred mobile home sites, and freeway noise has been a constant factor for residents. Following years of discussion, a brick sound wall is now partially finished along 2,338 feet of freeway frontage.

The project is expected to be finished in late December, said Lenard LaChappell of the West Sacramento Public Works Department.

The height of the finished wall will vary from 10 to 14 feet.

LaChappell said the wall "is primarily a Caltrans project with city oversight."

It is funded with a mix of federal, state and city money.

Kim Noonan, the Caltrans resident engineer directing the project, said that the Federal Highway Administration is contributing $649,490 to the project; the state department of transportation (Caltrans) is contributing $71,869; and West Sacramento is pitching in $205,151.

Ed Davis, a Valhalla resident, stands on the street in front of his home as crews work to finish a sound wall designed to screen freeway noise from neighbors.

One resident said the wall was already about waist high near her residence, and sound levels have dropped noticeably.

Ed Davis, a 13-year resident of the park whose property is right across the street from the freeway, said he is "just waiting for it to be done."

Although the wall is several feet high in front of his property, Davis said he does not yet notice a reduction in freeway noise.

What concerns him more is improved safety. Out-of-control vehicles from the freeway have come into the mobile home park before, he said.

"We woke up one night and a truck came through here (from the freeway) and ended up not six feet from the trailer," Davis related.. "The cab was sitting right here, in the street," he added, pointing to Lake Rd. in front of his driveway. He hopes the new, reinforced brick wall will help reduce such dangerous stray traffic.

Davis said "it's been hell" living next to the freeway, he said. But sleeping hasn't been as hard as you might think.

"The noise does die down at night," he stated.

School board spends $13,200 to test the waters

By David Weller

The Washington Unified School District has hired a consulting firm, GLS Research, to ask the community if it would support a school bond measure. The company will conduct a telephone survey of West Sacramento households for the price of $13,200.

Two previous attempts to pass a bond measure in order to fund a new high school in Southport failed. Past proposals have been to build a new high school and move some of the middle school students to the current River City High School campus in order to relieve overcrowding at Golden State Middle School.

Bond measures require a two-thirds majority vote to pass.

"There may be some additional information from this consulting firm that we don't have from past studies," said Board Member Stuart Knox.

He also said that the district is currently only interested in finding out if there is community support. "Right now we're only trying to find out if it will be worth-while to even pursue a bond issue. If we don't have the votes, there is no reason to go forward," he said.

School Board President Pat Flint said she believes that changes in the tax structure in Southport and the change in administration at the district might improve the chances for a bond measure to pass. "We one by a majority the last two times, but not by the two-thirds we needed. We don't know if a third try will work, it will be close," she said.

Flint went on to say that the district's fear is that the Palamedessi Bridge will be built, allowing for development to begin in Southport, but that the school district will not have the room to house the additional students.

Jack may be back, but no longer in West Sac

By Steve Marschke

A Jack in the Box restaurant at the corner of Harbor Blvd. and West Capitol Ave. in West Sacramento has gone out of business, said a corporate spokesperson.

Shirley Gines, director of corporate communications for Food Maker, Inc. (which is the restaurant chain's parent company), answered a query about the restaurant with a prepared statement Tuesday.

"The franchise operator has gone out of business, and Jack in the Box's franchise agreement with him has been terminated," she said.

Gines declined further comment because the company and the franchise operator, Walter Balloon, are in litigation. She declined to describe the nature of that litigation.

Balloon could not be reached for comment.

It is unknown what will happen to the site. Gines said that her company does not own or lease the restaurant's property at the northwest corner of the busy Harbor/West Capitol intersection.

Drive-through customers at Jack-in-the-Box on Tuesday found service a little lacking: the restaurant has gone out of business.

Clarksburg group concerned about West Sacto's plans

■ Representatives from West Sacramento and Clarksburg agree to regular, informal meetings to help avoid future misunderstandings

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento officials apologized to a Clarksburg citizens' group last week, after a meeting to discuss plans for a new West Sacramento sewage plant. The Clarksburg residents were concerned that they had not been contacted about the plant, considering that West Sacramento discharges its sewage wastes from a pipe in Clarksburg.

"We learned about it by accident," said Ted Smith, president of the Clarksburg advisory committee which meets to work on the town's general plan. Smith added that the group's meetings have become a platform to discuss various issues concerning the town outside of its general plan.

"When we heard about it, we asked for a meeting with (County Supervisor) Mike McGowan," said Smith. "He talked to us and helped set up the meeting with the city."

McGowan joined city manager Joe Goeden, planning director Steve Patek, council member Cindy Tuttle, and representatives from Yolo County at Thursday's meeting in Clarksburg.

"(Tuttle) apologized to us as did the city manager for overlooking Clarksburg," Smith recounted. "They invited us to place people on two committees studying the sewage issue further. More importantly, she invited us to establish an ongoing liaison with West Sacramento."

Smith commented that "as West Sacramento grows, it's going to move in this direction (towards Clarksburg). There are so many concerns, perhaps more on our part than on West Sacramento's."

Clarksburg is a rural, farming town of about 2,000 people located about 14 miles south of West Sacramento. It is an unincorporated part of Yolo County -- which means it has not formed into a city.

Smith said he is concerned about the discharges of substances such as mercury, cyanide and salts from the sewage pipe in Clarksburg, if West Sacramento builds its new sewage treatment plant and newspaper recycling plant to be served by it.

"One of the problems is that perhaps about two or three hundred feet from that pipe is a pipe that takes water from the river for irrigation of farmland. Some of these things could make the land unfarmable in a rather short period of time."

Smith said his group is also concerned about the impacts more chemicals will have on recreational uses of the river such as fishing and water skiing.

Due partly to opposition from residents in West Sacramento who are scheduled to live next door to the new sewage plant, the city has decided to take another look at shipping all its

Clinic still hopes for methadone center

Director hopes to educate community on benefits

By David Weller

Eric Reininga, Director of Counseling and Community Education at the John Jones Community Clinic, has become frustrated by neighborhood opposition to his clinic's proposed addition of methadone services as part of its drug treatment program.

The clinic already provides drug treatment services to more than 400 patients, and that number is expected to grow.

Reininga believes that his tough, integrated treatment program is a better alternative for many addicts than sending them to jail. "Arrest doesn't work. You send an addict to jail for a couple of months and he's still an addict when he gets out."

Drug treatment programs, on the other hand, do help people to get themselves out of the cycles of abuse and criminal activity, according to Reininga.

People in the outpatient recovery program go through medically supervised detoxification, daily group counseling sessions, weekly narcotics anonymous meetings, and random testing ensure that they are not using while undergoing treatment.

At later stages of treatment there is even some job training available through referrals to other non-profit agencies in the county.

"If someone goes into a program, there is an immediate 75 to 80 percent decrease in criminal behavior, and an immediate decrease in drug use," he said.

According to Reininga, most of the intravenous drug users in West Sacramento are long-time residents. "Most of them were born and raised here in West Sacramento They are caught up in a cycle of family drug use. None that we surveyed were gainfully employed. This is a home-grown problem," he said.

It is the heavy intravenous heroin user, and pregnant heroin addicts, that the clinic would target with methadone treatment.

The clinic is the only treatment center for pregnant drug abusers in the county. Methadone is a standard treatment for pregnant women because detoxification can cause severe problems in pregnancy.

Currently the clinic, although treating the women at the center, has to send them to other facilities to get their doses of methadone.

The other candidates for methadone treatment, the

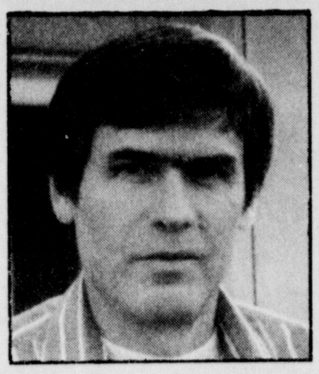
New info on some minor maladies of the human body

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

The other evening, my wife strolled into our bedroom, sure that she would find me comfortably seated at my computer, pounding out this week's column. When she quickly discovered that I was absorbed in a brand new book instead, and that I hadn't even turned the computer on, she said, "But I thought you told me tonight was the only evening this week you would be able to work on your column?"

"It is," I said, eagerly turning another page of the book I was reading.

"Then why haven't you even started?"

"I'm doing a little research first," I answered.

"On what subject?"

"I'm not exactly sure yet," I explained, "but there's definitely a column somewhere in this book -- I just know it."

"What's the title of it?" she asked, pulling up a chair.

"Well," I said a bit reluctantly, "it's written by a guy named Chet Cunningham, and it's called The Irritable Bowel Syndrome -- or IBS for short."

"What?" exclaimed my wife, sure that she had misunderstood me.

"It's a gastro-intestinal solutions handbook," I further explained.

"And you're actually going to write a column about it?"

"Sure."

"Where in the world did you get it?" she asked, slowly shaking her head.

"I . . . I saw it in the library," I lied.

"Oh no you didn't," said my wife suspiciously. "It's a paperback -- and it's brand new."

"Okay, okay," I said, caught as usual, "if you have to know, I ordered it through the mail. I saw it advertised awhile back in the Sacramento Bee."

"You have an irritable bowel?" asked my wife with surprise and a very discernable look of disgust.

"Well," I explained, "not yet, but the advertisement said that everyone my age should keep one of these handy -- just in case."

"Just in case what?"

"You know, just in case my plumbing or something starts acting up when I hit 50."

"It sounds like a waste of money to me," she said, shaking her head again.

"Not if I get a column out of it," I assured her, "and listen to some of this great stuff. Did you know that more women than men get IBS? And that the common cold, IBS, and digestive tract complaints cause the most visits to doctors offices every year? And that Zantac and Tagamet -- both of which are used to help control stomach acids -- are the two best selling drugs in the whole world."

"That's interesting," said my wife without much enthusiasm.

"And this book is just full of neat facts like that," I continued. "For instance, can you believe that our saliva glands secrete over a quart of fluid a day? That means we have to swallow from 2,300 to 2,400 times a day just to move the spit out of our mouths."

"And you're going to share that with everyone in West Sacramento?" asked my wife, taking a deep breath and closing her eyes as she often does when I discuss my column ideas with her.

"Sure," I said. "People are really interested in this kind of stuff -- I know I am."

"Daryl," said my wife with conviction, "take my word for it -- people don't want to know what's going on with the saliva in their mouth."

"Sure they do," I insisted, "and that's just the tip of the iceberg. Listen to this. Did you have any idea that it's absolutely normal for most people to generate from a pint to two quarts of bowel gas every 24 hours? And that most individuals pass air from 10 to 12 times a day -- some as much as 20?"

"No," said my wife, getting up from her chair, "and I didn't particularly want to know that, either."

"And listen to this," I yelled after her as she began to leave the room, "did you know -- and I'm quoting here -- that `One of the most embarrassing and infuriating minor maladies of the human body is anal itching'?"

"Daryl!"

"And it says right here, `Don't shy away from this problem, don't be embarrassed, almost everyone has it from time to time, and it can occur for a variety of reasons. But lack of cleanliness is not a cause. In fact, this is one area of your body that is best left alone'."

"Stop!"

"But I think this may be the most important part," I continued. "It says that whatever we do, we're not supposed to over clean, because `Soap can irritate the opening and cause you more pain and problems'."

"I'm not kidding!"

"We're just supposed to `Wash lightly without soap and then pat, don't rub, dry'."

The ingredients that make up a real, honest-to-goodness hero

T.J. Smoot

Mrs. Smoot and I took her folks to see the movie "Apollo 13" last Saturday. I doubt there was a dry eye during the movie, as we witnessed the retelling of Frank and Marilyn Lovell, Fred Haise, Jack Swigert, Ken Mattingly and Mission Control endure the drama of the successful rescue from the aborted moon flight. We witnessed real character: strength, courage, dedication to duty, camaraderie, belief in God, integrity, and overcoming human foibles. And so it seemed natural in the discussion later in the yogurt shop for my father in-law to reminisce back some 50 years ago to WWII, when heroes were more common. My father-in-law grew up in a small town in Iowa, and when the call to duty came, he flew single engine fighters and trained other fighter pilots to fight for the good cause. In these discussions I also think of his long-time friend, Don, who co-piloted bombers on combat missions in the South Pacific. (His next occupation was even more dangerous, teaching junior high.)

Are there heros today? Sure. The cause and struggle may not be so global. It may only be local or personal. Often heros are ordinary people finding themselves caught up in extraordinary situations, and the test of their mettle is not always whether they succeed, but how they struggle toward that goal and what character is formed as a result. Heros aren't whiny-babies who complain about rights lost and suing because needs weren't met or a frail ego was slighted. Heros are those who press onward toward honorable goals in spite of opposition.

I'm an easy mark for underdogs and visionaries, and I must admit that I was moved by the latest edition of City Lights, our community newsletter which outlined the visions for our city and goals reached. Even though we are an underdog in the greater area, I hold out a lot of hope for West Sacramento. I see the improvements in the city, little by little. For example, it was a mature move by the police chief to publicly recognize that crime in our community is not easy to erase because it involves people with deep-seated problems. His job is cut out for him. A strength of our city not easily evident to the outside casual observer is our neighborhood community identity. Contributors to this are pastors, priests, and other religious leaders. Here are modern day visionaries encouraging us to consider higher concepts than what's for dinner or who's playing the 'Niners. I don't think these guys get enough recognition for the "glue" they provide to develop community strength. The next time you spot a clergyman, pat him on the back and thank him for his hard work and commitment.

Heros are forged from family and personal struggles as well. I'm sure there are women in town like my single immigrant mother who barely spoke English and labored long to help raise her nine children. Let's not forget moms who gave up careers to invest in their children (Count Mrs. S in this crowd). A few years ago, my in-laws celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, and I offered what I thought was a touching idea for their party: Renew their wedding vows. My mother-in-law asked me, "Why?" Suddenly I was face to face with commitment embodied, and I had no reply. Now I realized that heros are also those who work to keep their promises to each other.

I look forward to the time when West Sacramento will be a city whose respect few will question. To get there will take commitment and heroism from each in our community. In writing this, I'm reminded of a poem taped to my office wall that reads: There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries. On such a full sea are we now afloat, and we must take the current when it serves, or lose our ventures -- Unknown. From my perch, it looks like we're on our way to adventure, as long as heros remain faithful to honorable causes.

Raiders come out on top in 22-19 squeaker game

By Khaled Dastagirzada
River City High School Football Team

The River City Raiders faced the Encina Bulldogs on their first and only Saturday game of the regular season. The Raiders were not used to playing on a Saturday, but that didn't have much of an effect on them. The Raiders topped the Bulldogs with a score of 22 to 19, in what ended up as a close and exciting game of combat.

In the first quarter, the Raiders' spectacular defense forced the Bulldogs to fumble and Will Welcher recovered it for River City. On the following drive, Josh Castro turned the right corner and scored on a 30-yard touchdown run. But wait -- a yellow flag flew across the field and the touchdown was called back because of a holding penalty on the Raiders. On River City's next drive, Castro broke a tackle and picked up 12 yards. Jimmy Timas was given the next carry, but he fumbled the ball as he tried to pick up extra yards. The Raiders' defense stepped up to their task when Welcher and Auggie Correa both sacked Encina's quarterback and forced them to punt. The first quarter ended with neither team on the scoreboard.

In the second quarter, the Raiders were held to a 4th and 7, but they failed to convert. Encina was also held to a 4th down situation, but an offsides on the Raiders gave the Bulldogs the first down. That led to a 10-yard touchdown run by #10 on the Bulldogs. The extra point was good and Encina led the Raiders by seven points. Castro carried the ball for 7 yards, then Randy Byard topped that with 9 yards. Timas tried to tack on his share of yards by carrying the ball for 7 yards, but that was called back by another Raiders holding penalty. Angel Cardenas added 25 more yards on a reverse. That set up a 2-yard touchdown run by Castro. Peter Santizo added on the extra point to tie the game at 7. The Encina Bulldogs scored right back when a 20-yard pass to #22 set up a 5-yard touchdown, run by their quarterback. The extra point failed and the halftime score was River City 7, Encina 13.

In the third quarter, River City was held to another 4th down situation, but this time they were able to convert when Castro picked up two yards to get the first down. The Raiders were then called for another holding penalty. That aggravated Coach Massey, and he was hit with a 15-yard, unsportsmanship-like conduct penalty. Juan Acevedo was given the ball on another reverse play. He picked up 13 yards, but that was not enough and River City was forced to punt. Encina was held to another 4th and 4 situation. As the ball was snapped to punt, it sailed over the punter's head and into the endzone. R.C.'s Welcher sacked the punter in Encina's endzone for a safety (two points). R.C. now trailed 13 to 9. Castro gave the ball right back to Encina when he fumbled the ball. The Bulldogs decided to have a small celebration on the field and they were hit with a 15-yard, unsportsmanship-like conduct penalty. That penalty and good defense by the Raiders forced Encina to punt. On the Raiders' first play of their next drive, Castro turned the right corner again, and scored on a 3-yard touchdown run. That play wasn't called back. The two-point conversion failed and the Raiders had the lead for the first time with a score of 15 to 13. Late in the third quarter, the Raiders punted the ball and it was returned for 53 yards. Joe Portwood prevented the punt returner from scoring. Encina was still able to score on a 27-yard touchdown pass. The two-point conversion failed and Encina regained the lead with a score of 19 to 15.

After a long and heartpounding drive, in the beginning of the fourth quarter, Castro scored on a 9-yard touchdown run. The extra point by Santizo was good and the Raiders captured their second and final lead of the game, 22 to 19. Brian Kinney sacked the Bulldogs' quarterback for a 7-yard loss, but that meant nothing when the Raiders were called for a roughing the kicker penalty that gave Encina the first down. Later on that drive, Encina was held to a 4th and 6. They decided to go for it, and the pass was caught by #10 for a 21-yard gain. Encina scored from two yards out with a pass to #49, but that was called back. After more impressive defensive plays by the Raiders, but Bulldogs were held to a 4th and 10, which set up a field goal for Encina. The ball was snapped, the kick was up, but it was blocked. Sam Savala came up with the predominant play. The game ended with the scoring at River City 22, Encina 19.

The Raiders' coaching staff felt that the Raiders should've never been put in that situation, that they should've blown out Encina. But the second half effort from the Raiders pleased the coaches and their record improved with four wins and two losses. River City will face Colfax next week, as their Homecoming game.

The Sports Insider—

By Richard Novoa

There's been an Elvis sighting in San Francisco! Yes, Elvis Grbac will play next Sunday in the big game with the first place St. Louis Rams (5-1). Steve Young was sacked six times by the Colts in their 18-17 victory over the defending Super Bowl champs. Young injured his throwing arm and is out for two to four weeks with a badly bruised shoulder. The 49ers played just terrible as the Colts really surprised them and kicked their tails!

Speaking of kicks, Doug Brien missed his last field goal as a 49er, because they released him after missing a 45-yard attempt in the last seconds of the game. The 49ers never forgot the kick he missed on Monday night against the Lions! Look for the Niners to sign ex-Rams kicker Tony Zendejas.

It was a bad week for Bay Area teams because the Oakland Raiders (5-2) were held to 169 yards of total offense, as the Denver Broncos shut them out 27-0! The Broncos (4-3) had lost to the Raiders six consecutive times and ended a seven game losing streak on "Monday Night Football." The Raiders tangle next Sunday in Oakland with the Indianapolis Colts, who have beat the Rams, Dolphins and 49ers in the last three weeks!

The Major League playoffs continue this week as the Braves rest and wait the results of the best-of-seven series between Seattle and Cleveland to see who will play in the 1995 World Series.

Atlanta swept the Reds in four games and will have their pitching staff well rested for the American League team. The World Series is scheduled to start on Oct.21 in Atlanta.

The Sacramento Knights need one more victory over Anaheim to move on to the Championship round. The Knights beat the Splash at the Arco Arena last Thursday 5-4, but lost in overtime 6-5 on Saturday in Anaheim. The winner of Tuesday night's game moves on to play the Monterrey La Raza in the final, which begins Monday in Mexico.

See ya next week!!

Frosh football has big shutout

by Chuck Robinson

Last week the News-Ledger called me and apologized for misplacing the article discussing the game between the River City High School freshman football team and Bear River. River City lost a close game to Bear River, 14 to 21. The Raiders, with 18 seconds left in the game, were on the 1-yard line and had a chance to win, but the ball was fumbled away, and they came away losing a heart-breaker.

The team came back last Thursday and beat Marysville 32 to 0. R.C. scored all 32 points in the first half, and coach Chris Baker played the second and third teams in the second half, who did a great job holding Marysville scoreless.

Rushing for R.C. was Adam Wickliffe, 39 yards; Alfredo Rodriguez, 37 yards; Vincent Baldizan, 34 yards; Dominique Alpers, 31 yards; Malcom Floyd, 20 yards; Felix Timas, 18 yards; Gilbert Savala, 18 yards; and William Snow, 13 yards.

On defense, Ricky Santos led with 4 tackles, 7 assists, 4 quarterback sacks; Dominique Alpers, 5 tackles, 3 assists, 2 sacks; Ben Ochoa, 1 tackle, 2 assists, 1 fumble recovery, 1 sack; and Malcom Floyd, 1 tackle, 1 knock-down pass, 1 fumble recovery. River City had 210 yards rushing, 58 yards passing, a total of 268 yards. Marysville had 75 yards rushing and 0 yards passing. River City's record is 3-2 in league and 4-2 overall.

Coach Chris Baker said, "This was just the type of win we needed. I'm always happy when we can win and get everyone some playing time. I'm looking forward to Thursday's game against Colfax."

This Thursday, R.C. will travel to Colfax. Game time is 6.

Time to create Plan B: paper plant looking doubtful

The proposed West Sacramento newspaper recycling plant, once ballyhooed as a great golden goose which would jumpstart the city's development and draw funds to local government and schools, is looking like more and more of a longshot.

No, the proposal isn't dead. West Sacramento gave it everything its backers asked for, asking few questions and reading little of the fine print. But opposition to it (not surprisingly) has mounted on several fronts, and some of the plant's problems are looking unsurmountable.

On the plus side, the Southport Industrial Park still would love to see the plant come in as an anchor tenant for industry south of the barge canal.

Combined pressure from construction unions and developers also means local elected officials don't dare oppose it.

The state has also expressed support for the recycling project, as have several anti-waste environmental groups attracted to the idea of recycling tons of newsprint.

The Port of Sacramento hopes to see Southport Industrial Park and the paper plant do well, too, because both share infrastructure needs (such as a new bridge) that are possible to solve only by working together and simultaneously trying to attract outside help.

At the top of the scoreboard on the "minus" side is the plant's sewage problem. Building the paper plant will mean that West Sacramento absolutely has to find a new way to handle its sewage, since the paper plant won't be treating its liquid wastes "in house." In fact, this is one of the ways in which the proposed West Sacramento plant differs from the one city officials and a News-Ledger reporter toured in Georgia, bringing back glowing reports: the Georgia plant handled its own wastes.

Mercury, salts, dissolved solids and thermal pollution are some of the problems the paper plant and new sewage plant will bring to the river.

Lining up in protest against the sewage plant/paper plant package are, in no particular order:

- Residents of the Southport neighborhood where the new sewage plant is planned, concerned about a sewage plant in their "back yard."
- Farmers and residents of Clarksburg, concerned about the sewage discharges West Sacramento sends to their part of the river, possibly polluting irrigation water.
- Environmental groups such as the Sacramento Toxics Campaign and a sport fishermen's group have already sued the city once over the plant, and are looking closely at at its effects on the Sacramento River.
- Perhaps most ominously, those who tap thewater downstream for use in the Bay Area and Los Angeles have already weighed in with their concerns about increased river pollution. Representing millions of water customers, these districts are known to keep a lawyer or two on staff.

In addition, paper company officials from MacMillan Bloedel in Canada have said it's still not profitable to build their paper plant. Although prices for recycled newsprint (their product) have gone up, so has the cost of production, they say.

Taken together, these things spell deep trouble to the MacMillan Bloedel/Haindl Papier newsprint plant, and to all the industrial development assumptions that have depended on it.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks for the help!

On behalf of Soroptimist International of West Sacramento, I would like to extend a belated "thank you" to all those who helped to make our "Big Roundup" such a success.

Jus a few of those folks include: Dave Bender of Channel 10 for his wonderful job of M.C.; Dave Farmer, for the delicious meal which he provided to us at a very minimal cost; Cindy Tuttle and her group of wonderful musicians; Jean Kelly, for the fun instructions in line dancing; the VFW organization for providing us with the hall; and, of course, to all our friends and supporters who purchased the dinner and raffle tickets. And, last but not least, to Harrahs, South Lake Tahoe, for donating the first prize for the raffle.

Through this event, we were able to raise about one-half of the funds which will be needed to furnish the "soft interview" room at the new police facility. Other funds had already been set aside for this project and the remainder of the amount needed will be raised during the current club year. These funds have been set aside in a special account and will be available when the room is ready for furnishing.

To your organization, please accept a really big "thank you" for all the publicity you gave to our event. We just could not do the service projects that we do without the support of all the businesses and individuals in our community. We really appreciate it.

Plant is mistake

During my 17 years of work on Northwest area water problems, I have lived in the vicinity of paper plants and talked with others about their problems on the Willamette and Columbia Rivers. These plants are common in the Northwest. Paper plants are not good neighbors.

Paper making is a huge problem. They use a huge amount of water and waste a huge amount of foul water. Very bad water.

Cities that draw from the Willamette River, where summer flow is very comparable to the Sacramento River, complain about musty-stale tasting water. The tides in the Sacramento flow all the way up to Verona, 20 miles plus upstream and above West Sacramento. Our drinking water is this very same water.

Additionally, you don't want to live within 25 miles of such a plant or the wastewater treatment of that plant. When a mistake occurs, and these are common, and the air drifts your way, WOW! Paper plants and the treatment of water from such plants are the best possible source of the worst kind of air. Bad stinky air.

Such plants and the waste water treatment from such a plant are not good neighbors.

If you live or work in West Sacramento, you should be very definitely against such a monster coming to this area. Stop this from happening PLEASE!

BEN MINTER

Flu shot clinics for local senior citizens

Mid-October to mid-November is the time for senior flu shots. A flu shot clinic will be held in West Sacramento on two different occasions during the month of November. One will take place on Wednesday, November 1, from 9 to 11 a.m. at Sam Coombs Center, 205 Stone Blvd.; the other will be held on Wednesday, November 15, from 9 to 11 a.m. at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way.

Charges for immunizations are $4 for the flu shot (given every year); $8 for Pneumovax (given one time only); and $10 for TD (given every ten years).

Beginning this year, if you belong to an HMO (Health Maintenance Organization), you must go to your doctor for your shots. If, however, you choose to come to the clinic, you will have to pay.

The clinic cannot do the billing.

Volunteers sought for 'Sister/Friend' program

The Sister/Friend Project will hold a training workshop for prospective sister/friend volunteers on Saturday, November 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Children's Garden Child Care Center, 475 Matmor Road in Woodland (across the street from K Mart).

The workshop will include training on communication and listening skills; setting boundaries; chemical dependency; effects of perinatal substance abuse; domestic violence; teen pregnancy; and community resources. Due to limited space, reservations are necessary by November 1. Child care will be available for a minimal charge.

The Sister/Friend Project is looking for West Sacramento women who will volunteer two hours of their time a week to help other women.

Our clients are pregnant or parenting women or teens in need of emotional support, encouragement and practical assistance as they learn to manage their own lives. Our goals are to facilitate prenatal and continuing health care and drug-free deliveries, and to promote healthy and happy mother/child relationships.

This is accomplished by providing one on one support, pairing each volunteer with one mother. Currently the project serves 70 Yolo County women and teens.

Sister/friend volunteers and clients are matched together based upon where they live, common interests and cultural heritage. Bilingual volunteers are especially needed for non-English speaking mothers. The project stresses that volunteers are not professionals or substitute parents and a non-judgmental attitude is an essential element of this relationship.

The Sister/Friend Project is jointly sponsored by CommuniCare Health Centers and Yolo County Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs. To get involved with the Sister/Friend project, please call Mary Jo Bryan at either the Yolo County Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs, 666-8650, or the John H. Jones Community Clinic, 371-1966 or 758-3109.

Fat? Sick and Tired?

So was I. Overweight, suffering from chronic fatigue, experiencing hair loss, anxiety resulting in heart palpitations, and poor diet attached to a high stress work environment, blah, blah, blah. . . (Sound familiar?)

Well, today I have lost over 50 lbs., I weigh what I did as a high school junior nearly 18 years ago, the hair loss has stopped, the heart problems have ceased, my diet has greatly improved, and I no longer experience the high stress in virtually the same line of business.

This may not work for everyone, but if you want to know how to get off the track to a short life-span and one that may add years to a more productive and healthier life, simply call (800) 836-9180. I will send you a free tape, and personally return your call.

I wouldn't be offering this product to you if I hadn't used it for over 1 1/2 years and believed in it myself.

Economic committee to discuss disadvantaged groups

At the next Economic Development Advisory Commission meeting on October 25, commission members will hear a presentation from the Yolo County Community Partnership Agency.

The presentation by Director Alexander Laiewski will cover the agency's role in developing local partnerships between private sector employees and targeted disadvantaged groups.

The agency serves groups of people who are most in need of employment assistance. A major identified group includes people who have been laid off due to plant closures or company downsizing.

The agency helps with job placement, retraining if needed and help with improving job search skills.

Other affected groups include high school dropouts, substance abusers, older workers, and homeless or illiterate people. Handicapped people also can benefit from agency programs.

Another item on the agenda of the next Economic Development Advisory Commission meeting is graffiti removal. The meeting on October 25 begins at 6 p.m. in the West Sacramento City Council Chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd.

The public is invited.

sion but never really knew what it meant. Evidently in the vernacular of the deep South, it means a Democrat who would vote for a yellow dog over any Republican. That's me. In fact, I would vote for a weasel, a snake, a skunk or a sewer rat over any Republican.

I didn't think the GOP could possibly sink any lower but the recent Medicare hearings could have been held in Hades. Wealthy Republicans have now done a number of every helpless group of citizens in the U.S. They started with needy babies and children, worked their way through the blind and disabled, and ended with an attack on the frail elderly dying in nursing homes.

One sharp senior citizen put it succinctly..."The Republicans have given new definition to the Ways and Means Committee, all they do is sit around thinking of new ways to be mean."

The GOP makes blustering speeches about the loss of family values at the same time they run ads trying to ignite an intergenerational feud. These thirty second spots of spoiled yuppie-type young adults complaining about their selfish parents and grandparents are appalling. Message: throw these wicked old geezers (who gave you life and sacrificed everything to raise you) to the wolves...so much for family solidarity.

Forty-one million working families have no health insurance (and earn too much to apply for Medicaid). The have a soft bound copy of President Clinton's National Health Security Plan (now defunct) sitting on my desk. The complete draft and final reports of the White House Domestic Policy Council is 284 pages. The Republican voted it down because it was "too complicated" and would given all citizens the option of joining an HMO (then branded as "socialized medicine").

One year later they are pushing through a 3,000 page plan that would force all seniors into HMO's (now touted as "expanded options"). President Clinton tried his best to convince people that: a) the only way to balance the budget is to get health costs under control; and, b) the only way to get health costs under control is to spread out the premiums by insuring every citizen (young and old, healthy and unhealthy). It happens to be true. But the electorate chose "c" -- let the GOP and the AMA romp in bed while the rest of us go hang.

Slashing 280 billion from Medicare to give the pampered elite another huge tax break if really an ambush on middle-aged, middle-class citizens. Their children will be left without college loans and their ailing parents will be denied adequate long-term care. Guess who will be mortgaging their homes to help out loved ones?

Anyone with eyes, ears and half a brain -- who makes under $150,000.00 a year -- voting Republican in '96 is a heartless chump. Those making over that amount, voting Republican, are still heartless (but crafty). Many don't bother to vote at all. If they end up losing what little they own, they have no right to complain. The bottom line? Register to vote as a Democrat before it's too late. Scare tactics? No, stark reality.

City still in a mess

I have been away on vacation for 2 1/2 months. Did the City Council and our new mayor Potnick also take a vacation? I am asking this because there are problems in all area of our city which are not being straightened out.

First of all, there is the proposal for the methadone clinic. The proposed location for this clinic is the Riverbend Shopping Center. Why would we want more drug addicts hanging around the only grocery store in the area? Methadone is a substitute drug for heroin. Often times, addicts will get Methadone only because they are unable to get their heroin at that moment. For addicts who truly want recovery, this city already has many resources available. The Center in West Sacramento offers programs for recovery. Why would we want to encourage people to continue abusing any substance? Not to mention the impact this will have on our senior citizens and family-oriented people as they are continually approached by addicts every time they shop at this store. Perhaps the city fathers would like to place the Methadone Clinic in their neighborhood instead? Or better yet, put the clinic in Woodland, Winters or Davis. Why do we want to become a magnet for all the problems of the county? Your good neighbors from the Broderick area came to the meeting to give input but they were ignored. Simon Terrace has been remodeled and looks beautiful. All the problem tenants have been eliminated, so why not let this neighborhood have a break?

Another area that is having trouble is the Maple/Holly area. The good citizens of this area have been trying to clean up and better their neighborhood for well over a year. Although they were opposed to the placing of the low-incoming housing, it was placed in their neighborhood. Why didn't the city fathers put low-income housing in their neighborhoods? The Maple/Holly citizens did receive one whole stop sign and I guess now that the city fathers gave them something, they should be quiet and grateful for this generous gift.

Let's take a look at the other end of our city. Is the new sewer plant proposal the best location for our good citizens in Southport? Do you remember what happened in the Land Park area? The sewer plant was built in the middle of a residential area. The smell was so bad, many of the residents moved before the City of Sacramento finally woke up and moved the plant. I don't believe hooking into the Sacramento system is the best way to go because I think it's best if we control our own system. But I do know there are thousands of acres further out and the good citizens of Southport have a right not to smell a sewer 24 hours a day. If the plant were placed further out, at least the people buying a house will have an informed choice about living next to a sewer plant.

The local paper asked if it is worth further investment of public dollars to continue financing the Riverbend Music Festival? I think not. The paper said the city only lost $4,000.00. I looked at the budget for the festival and wonder why no money was spent on advertising in our local papers. The city also paid $14,000.00 for one band. I don't know how long they played or how good they were, but it sure seems like a lot of money to me. I do not understand why the city had to also provide motel rooms for this band in Sacramento hotels. If they were smart, they would have rented the rooms in West Sacramento and collected the transit occupancy tax money. The $4,000.00 loss does not take into account there were $4,425.00 in donations, $6,221.00 donation "in kind" and $1,296.44 in donated labor. The bottom line to me is they lost over $10,000.00. It could be I just keep books in a different way. The city has always kept books in a very creative way. The goals of the festival were:

1) Raise funds for Parks and Community Services. This did not happen.

2) Increase tourism. The city sent the rooms and money to Sacramento.

3) Provide a quality event. You do not provide a quality event at the expense of our local children's recreation programs.

4) Demonstrate positive things happen in West Sacramento. Positive things will happen if the city fathers keep our rate structures competitive and insure a strong business climate.

5) Raise money for the Chamber of Commerce. Is the Chamber a subsidiary of city council?

I guess they could afford the loss because they raised the commercial and industrial landscaping fees and put that money into the parks and community fund. The city administration think they are very smart but look what is happening in the industrial and commercial area. From City Hall all the way out to the new post office everything is vacant and the city fathers are increasing all the fees. It looks like a ghost town. Are they doing justice to our city and our local business people? I have a good example of what our city fathers and their staff are doing to local business people. I have a building at 2435 West Capitol (behind Cheers). I built it 14 years ago and rented it for $1,000.00 per month. The property became vacant and when I went to rent the building, I figured I could only get $600.00 per month. I had about ten people who looked at the property they liked the cheap rent and the location they were ready to rent so they went to the city commissioners to see about a license. When none of these people called me back, I called a few of them to see what the problem was, I was told the City of West Sacramento has too many rules and regulations. They did not want to set up business in West Sacramento. I finally rented the building to S $ T Transmission on October 9 for 5 years. Thank goodness they were able to meet all the city standards.

It is time we make some changes in our city council. The citizens must be ready to vote in new people. We need people that make judgements based on good business sense.

Business, including small business, is the life blood of any community. In this area we are worse off then we were ten years ago. The river front is a mess, West Capitol and the industrial area are vacant, a sewer plant in the middle of established housing in Southport which is sure to diminish values of these properties (the council does not care they don't live there), the zoning ordinance has been rewritten and has caused great financial loss to many of our residents, and we are inviting more drug addicts into our community. When will it stop. We need to get everyone registered to vote. Call me if you need a ride to pick up a voters registration card at 371-1818.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Louis Dean Bowler:

A PETITION has been filed by Norman Bowler in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION requests that Norman Bowler be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Nov. 17, 1995 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 4, located at Yolo County Superior Court, 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Pursuant to Section 1773 of the Labor Code, the general prevailing rate of wages in the City in which the work is done has been determined by the Director of the Department of Industrial Relations. For bidding purposes these wage rate publications may be examined at the offices described above where project plans, Special Provisions, and proposal forms may be obtained. Future effective wage rates which have been predetermined and are on file with the Department of Industrial Relations are referenced but not printed in said publication.

Minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the Secretary of Labor are set forth in the Special Provisions. If there is a difference between the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the prevailing wage rates determined by the Department of Industrial Relations for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and his subcontractors shall pay not less than the higher wage rate. The Community Development Department will not accept lower State wage rates not specifically included in the Federal wage determinations. This includes "helper" (or other classifications based on hours of experience) or any other classification not appearing in the Federal wage determinations. Where Federal wage determinations do not contain the State wage rate determination otherwise available for use by the Contractor and subcontractors, the Contractor and subcontractors shall pay not less than the Federal minimum wage rate which most closely approximates the duties of the employees in question.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to determine which proposal is, in its judgment, the lowest responsible bid of a responsible bidder and which proposal should be accepted in the best interests of the City.

Local Items

The Sacramento River registered 4 feet 10 inches, U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge, yesterday. Some complaint has been heard during the past few days concerning the turbidity of the river water. Investigation proved that the mud was stirred up by a dredger farther up stream. Yet, withal, it was not so bad as it was two weeks ago.

Readers of The Independent should know that the Federal Government has sent out notices to all papers that subscribers must not be delinquent in their subscriptions more than three months on penalty of having their mail stopped by the postoffice authorities. In these times of stress The Independent is forced to live up to government regulations and while it does not wish to visit a hardship on any of its readers it must, perforce, live up to government regulations. Bills that have lately been mailed to subscribers are in compliance with governmental regulations. Extremely lenient in this particular the paper is forced to ask that an effort be made to meet the demands of the government and in justice to itself to keep it right in the eyes of the authorities who must enforce the law. The response already made has been magnificent and duly appreciated by The Independent.

As an example of the devastating damage done by influenza, one of the S. P. shop workers told this paper yesterday that of the 250 men working in the S. P. foundry there were 43 on the sick list. All of these may not have been afflicted with the disease but presumably the greater number were at their homes recovering or in the incipient stages. Those figures point to the fact that nearly 20 per cent were away from their work. Suppose that the insurance act were in force imagine if possible the amount that would have to be paid out by the State government to equalize their wages.

Ellis Barry (Toots) is able to be around again after ten days confinement at his home. While suffering with grippe his case did not develop into Spanish Influenza and his physician so advised.

Professor Case was around town yesterday wearing a mask and several admirers were extremely sore because of the disfigurement. The professor is a manly man, very particular of his personal appearance, always neat and always complacent. The mask is a great hardship to handsome men. But Professor Case has been through the influenza mill. His wife and sister-in-law are confined to their beds with the disease and he has just returned from San Francisco after losing a little nephew of tender years. Mr. Case is advising all his friends and pupils to protect themselves with masks because this easy precaution may help them to avoid the "flu."

A story was current around town yesterday that a great amount of whiskey had been shipped into the State of Kansas to help in abating or preventing Spanish Influenza. The exact amount was not specified but it was reported to be more than $400,000 in value. Woodland has not been short of this preventative, for the night train last Tuesday out of Sacramento carried thirty-seven one-gallon jugs and a gross of filled bottles concealed in suitcases, hand bags and hip pockets. Around town anyone showing signs of the disease are hurried to the drug stores and given liberal doses of the medicine.

Postmaster Bennetts was taken down last Saturday with what he believed to be a severe cold. Gradually he began to realize that he was afflicted with grippe or "flu" and took the necessary precautions. A physician diagnosed his case as grippe and held it in check. Yesterday he was much better but practically under quarantine. His two children, Francis and Alma are also confined to their beds but rapidly improving. The business in the Postoffice is being carried on by Mrs. Bennetts.

The report current around town that S. P. Pankost was near death with influenza was shown to be false yesterday afternoon when he drove across the bridge in his Ford. While seriously troubled and confined to his home he is very much alive.

Mrs. James Caffero is home after spending two weeks visiting her daughter Angelina at Suisun.

The Judges of the Police Courts in San Francisco have given permission for smoking in their courtrooms, even while court is in session. This example is quoted by Judge Barry as a precedent for the permisison extended by him in this particular. Smoking is considered a preventive to "flu" and comes next after whiskey as one of the most efficient preventives to the disease. Judge Barry says he hopes that some weak-minded fellow will not take his leniency as a license to become groggy.

The quota of work assigned the local Red Cross is incomplete and a great number of workers helped out this afternoon at the public school to finish the quota. There remains yet a lot to be finished and ladies are requested to become interested in this splendid unit of war work.

LITTLE JOE EGAN DEAD AT REDDING

Six years old and born in Washington, Joseph Egan is dead at Redding from influenza and his parents are seriously ill from the disease.

On October 11th the Egan family went to Redding to engage in business.

Yesterday a wire was received from the father that the child died last Wednesday.

He was an estimable little fellow, loved by everyone who knew him. He was bright and playful and had attended the public school for a few weeks before moving to Redding.

ONLY MILD CASES OF INFLUENZA PREVAIL IN WASHINGTON

MANY AFFLICTED, BUT THE DISEASE IS NOT OF A VIRULENT NATURE AND PATIENTS RECOVER QUICKLY

Outside of the case of V. Valentine all the known cases of influenza existing in Washington have been mild or rather cases of grippe than Spanish Influenza.

Last week The Independent reported no cases in town so far as known. Suddenly last Saturday several were taken down about the same time and the epidemic has been growing steadily till at the present time there is scarcely a family without some individual being afflicted.

All families have become aware of the seriousness of the disease. On the first symptoms the proper thing to do is to go to bed and stay there till a physician can be called. Then his advice should be followed.

Lacking medical advice the patient must be very careful about taking any further cold because pneumonia easily develops and it is in this there is danger.

Pneumonia induced through influenza has become fatal in many cases and that is what must really be feared.

In the many cases scattered throughout Washington there seems to be no cause for fear at this writing, provided the general advice being published by the papers and by health authorities be followed.

It is of great importance that the patient be kept indoors, secluded from drafts and better off in bed than anywhere else.

Three members of the Bennetts family are practically under quarantine in the postoffice building. E. Hanson has practically recovered Five members of the Brietzke family are confined to their beds but not seriously sick. Two members of the Morford family are down and reported to be in a serious condition. Virginia Todhunter has a mild case and is improving under medical treatment. Frank Korrell is at home from his business, but with a mild case. Several are down in the Russell home on Fourth street. Grant De Riso spent several days in bed but is around again, while Sam Steuben is resting easy. Beatrice Williams has only a slight case. Lillian Lear is recovering from tonsilitis and Olga Caffero has a similar affliction, but both able to be around their homes. L. Gomez is recovering after several days in bed. "Doc" Evans is on his feet expecting to return to work soon.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the friends and neighbors who treated us so kindly and with much consideration during our late trouble, we offer our sincere thanks, and especially to the workers of the Sacramento Laundry, who showed their great sympathy, we offer our thanks.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CLOSED LAST TUESDAY

On convening school last Tuesday morning Prof. Case found that not more than 100 children were present out of a regular attendance of over 160.

It became apparent that an epithe children's attendance at school, the childrens attendance at school, and it was decided to close the building to prevent any further spread of disease.

The children were dismissed for the day with instruction not to return till word was sent by the Trustees that the school was open.

At this writing it is impossible to say how soon the Trustees will decide on the opening of the school semester again.

Fort Jones, Siskiyou County, is in a bad shape.

The only physician in the town has been called to the front and several cases of influenza have appeared.

Fort Jones is liable to become as lonesome as Woodland.

A Texas man has asked the Farm Adviser of Sacramento County for "beer seed."

And the Texas Prohibition law has been declared illegal by the Supreme Court of the State.

First thing we know Texas will be getting a rotten reputation.

City agency, volunteers work to gain information on how to keep and nurture local businesses

Volunteers working with the City of West Sacramento's Business Retention and Expansion Program will soon begin interviewing business owners to collect key information about businesses operating in the City.

Approximately 30 volunteers have been selected and trained to conduct the interviews which are expected to begin within the next month, according to Barbara Moore, an economic development specialist with the city's redevelopment agency.

"Retention and expansion of existing firms is the key to increasing employment, maintaining a stable tax base, and attracting new businesses," Moore said. "Since it's easier to retain a business than to recruit a new one, the City has to educate itself on the wants, needs and perceptions of the business community. As a result, City policies can be periodically updated to become more responsive to the needs of businesses," she added.

The City Council, in September of 1992, authorized creation of the Business Retention and Expansion Program. The program design features three main components: business monitoring, specialized inquiries, and City policy updating. Information gained through the first two components, which includes the upcoming business interviews, will be included, where possible, into the third component. It's in this program component that City policies and programs are updated to address issues raised by businesses.

Following the interview process, the collected data will be evaluated to identify business concerns. City staff members will then attempt to develop and implement programs to address these concerns.

Someone turns off city's main water valve

An unknown suspect closed a key valve at the West Sacramento drinking water treatment plant in the early hours of Sunday morning. But the closure tripped alarms and employees corrected the problem before water customers were affected.

The incident occurred before 3 a.m. According to a police incident report, someone "hopped the fence" to tamper with the plant.

"Some vandal, we don't know who, closed it," said public works director Jerry Lo. "We reported it to the police. The alarms went on when it happened. Users would not have noticed it."

Lo said the city has a 10 million gallon reserve of water at the plant, so a temporary shutdown is not a problem for city water customers.

Plant superintendent Jim West resigned from the department Oct. 6, and a temporary manager has taken over administrative duties of the superintendent until the city hires a replacement.

heavy, $300 a day heroin users, are often people who have tried and failed to get off the drug using other methods. They are also the people most likely to commit crimes.

Those are the kinds of people we need to get into methadone treatment. We are not advocating maintenance for the rest of your life. First you stabilize them, then detoxify. You help them get rid of a $300 a day habit. You also continue to test them. If they are backing up the methadone with heroin, they get booted out of the program," he said.

Reininga wants to make clear to the community that his program focuses on the need in West Sacramento. Sixty percent of the county's drug addicts live in West Sacramento, twenty-eight percent live in Woodland. In the near future, the clinic plans to begin offering outpatient services in Woodland.

"Somehow, because we treat these problems, we've become the lightning rod for criticism. A lot happens on the streets in this neighborhood, but its not being caused by this program, or by our patients," he said.

He also said he prefers consensus.

"We don't want to do it against the people. We'd like to spend some time in the community. I am open to dialogue."

wastes across the river to Sacramento for treatment. It had previously ruled out that option as too expensive.

The Clarksburg committee asked West Sacramento officials for time to study the environmental impact report on the new sewage plant further, said Smith.

"They didn't agree initially, but now they're backing up."

Clarksburg residents will have time to study the proposal even though the public input period has closed.

In the meantime, Smith's group has accepted the invitation to form a "two by two" committee to meet regularly with West Sacramento. Each group will appoint two members for the regular discussions on issues of concern.

Library says 'thanks' to its helpers

From the Yolo County Library

Volunteers who work at the Arthur F. Turner Branch Library were honored with a reception by the library staff in the community meeting room on Friday, October 13. Mary Stephans, Yolo County Librarian, personally thanked the ten volunteers present for their contributions. Ms. Stephans noted that twenty regular adult volunteers contribute more than 900 hours each year at the library.

The reception was coordinated by library staff members Elise McCallan and Cathy Lorda. Turner Branch Library Manager Jay Johnstone and County Librarian Mary Stephans made presentations. John Siden, President of the East Yolo Friends of the Library, was among the volunteers present.

Jay Johnstone listed some of the jobs performed by the library volunteers, including sorting; hauling and storing donated books for the Friends of the Library booksales; keeping bookshelves in order; preparing new books for the shelf; repairing damaged books; delivering books to homebound readers; and maintaining the library's video collection. Other volunteers present activity programs for children and adults, schedule and set-up art exhibits and displays, and sort magazines for the Friends' sale table at the library. The branch has a constant need for help keeping the shelves in order as usage increases and operating funds have been reduced.

Prospective library volunteers apply at the library branch by completing an application and are assigned jobs according to their interests and training and the needs of the library.

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Assume you're in six spades and West leads the queen of hearts — which you duck — followed by the jack. You ruff and the outcome appears to depend solely on finding the missing clubs divided 3-3. In that case, you'd be able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on your deuce of clubs and so make the slam.

But experience tells you that a 3-3 break occurs in slightly better than one deal out of three — 36 times in 100, to be more exact — and this is not a healthy prospect. So you start to look for a means of supplementing your chances — without, of course, relinquishing the possibility of a 3-3 break.

Actually, this is not a difficult task. You can improve your chances substantially by allowing for the possibility of a squeeze. All you need is for the defender with the club length to have the king of diamonds.

Accordingly, you draw two rounds of trumps, ruff the king of hearts, cash the ace of diamonds, and cross to dummy with your last trump to produce this position:

When you now play the 10-7 of trumps, discarding your diamonds, West acquires a king-sized headache trying to find two discards. He can square the nine of diamonds, all right, but his next discard will make everyone at the table happy except East and West.
